Forever Smiles Hosts Community Leaders

From the AAO Annual Session to hosting a roundtable breakfast, Dr. Yan Razdolsky and the Forever Smiles team are kicking it into high gear this May. He and his team are thankful to have hosted Congressman Bob Dold of District 10 and the Russian-Speaking Business Leaders roundtable breakfast, Tuesday, May 3.

A small business owner himself, Congressman Dold understands the constant struggles that a business leader may face and is committed to working to address questions and concerns of his business owner constituents. He believes that together we can begin tackling critical healthcare issues for our country and for our economy.

In addition to acknowledging the more than 20 professional leaders in attendance, Forever Smiles would also like to extend our gratitude to Meeting Chair Leader, Aleksandra Efimova and District Representative and Eastern European Community Liaison, Victoria Williams from the congressman's office for inviting us to be a part of this very impactful and influential event.

Forever Smiles Announces Winner of 2016 Coloring Contest

In conjunction with National Dental Health Month in February, Forever Smiles held a coloring contest for children K-5 through third grade to encourage kids to practice good oral health. Contestants colored along with the super space team of the USS Sugar Swatter and learned, "2min2x! 2 minutes 2 times a day and eat healthy for a healthy smile!"

The submissions are in and a winner is selected. Congratulations to Sarah G. as the winner of this year's contest. She will receive two movie passes.

MEETING REVIEW: 2016 AAO ANNUAL SESSION

As many of his colleagues, patients and friends know, Dr. Yan Razdolsky is a big proponent of continued education and study for the advancement of orthodontic treatment. He hosts, attends and lectures at programs and conferences throughout the year in order to share techniques and innovative ideas to help better serve his patients and others all over the world.

As part of this continued effort, Dr. and Mrs. Razdolsky attended 2016 Annual Session of the American Association of Orthodontists (AAO) at the Orange County Convention Center in Orlando, Florida. Packed with lectures, educational programs, world-renown speakers, and yes... a little fun, the conference held April 30 through May 3, offered attendees the opportunity to mix it up and learn in "The City Beautiful" known worldwide for its theme parks and entertainment.

This year's theme, Bringing Us Together drew in some of the most influential in the field. It spoke to uniting both practitioner and orthodontic team through programs, features, exhibits and technologies geared toward letting them see, touch and experience the newest products and developments in orthodontics.

AAO Conference programs featured scientific lectures and oral research presentations on early treatment, new developments in sleep apnea, orthodontic considerations, as well as Class II and Class III orthodontic treatments. In addition to orthodontic programs, attendees participated in numerous workshops and educational programs geared toward new patient treatments, as well as technological advances in the field.

"At the tradeshow there were exhibitors who brought in experts to share their knowledge," said Anna Razdolsky. "There were people showcasing digital imaging, bracket appliances and more. It was very exciting."

"Even professional surfer Bethany Hamilton was there. She has teamed up with a leading bracket manufacturer to develop braces emojis! Our patients will love them," she added.

Of course, with this much work there's time to relax, have fun and network with other dental professionals at events hosted at some of Orlando's most notable attractions. In addition to a host of activities, booths and exhibits at the Orange County Convention Center, awesome events at the AAO included an opening ceremonies at Sea World, the AAO Gala at Universal Studios Florida, a 5K Fun Run/Walk and the Excellence in Orthodontics Awards Ceremony featuring guest speaker, 2012 Republican Presidential Nominee Mitt Romney.

A whirlwind of activity, this annual event is a favorite of Dr. Razdolsky's in what it means for his patients.

"There is such a wealth of knowledge and expertise at the AAO Annual Session," said Dr. Razdolsky. "The quality of the programs and expertise of the presenters provides such great opportunity for growth in orthodontia. I am honored to be a part of this profession and appreciate that I am able to bring this information and experience back here to share with our patients."
