ANOTHER ORTHODONTIST in the Family!

Dr. Yan Razdolsky, Anna, and the entire Forever Smiles family are excited to announce that Elizabeth Razdolsky Michalczyk, DMD, PhD will be joining our office, having just graduated from her orthodontic residency program in Atlanta, Georgia!

With this specialist designation, Elizabeth is adding to her already impressive list of credentials. In addition to being a qualified dentist, Dr. Liz received her PhD from the University of Illinois at Chicago in tissue regeneration and wound healing. She has a record of published research that stretches back more than a decade, with four publications in the past three years alone! She even received the prestigious Recognition of Excellence in Research from the Emory School of Medicine and the Georgia School of Orthodontics. In addition to her remarkable publication record, Dr. Liz brings thousands of hours of hands-on experience, helping hundreds of patients achieve cleaner, straighter smiles. Her residency at the Georgia School of Orthodontics offered her the opportunity to work in a state-of-the-art clinical setting with the latest orthodontic appliances and cutting-edge diagnostic technology.

So, what can you expect when you walk into Forever Smiles for an appointment with Dr. Liz? You should expect to receive advanced orthodontic care, delivered with a smile by an exceptional orthodontist. She and Dr. Yan will collaborate, developing individualized plans to help all our patients, from children to adults, achieve their Forever Smiles. She will also bring her knowledge of the latest innovations and technologies to ensure that Forever Smiles remains ahead of the curve in improving the oral health of our patients. We couldn't be happier to have Dr. Liz join our team.

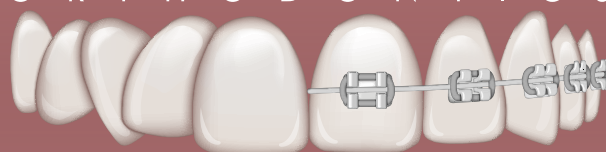

In her (limited) spare time, Dr. Liz enjoys adventurous travel, playing tennis, and cooking new foods. She and her husband recently moved to the north suburbs of Chicago and are excited to be back in the area.

Thank you for being part of our Forever Smiles Family.
